

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is the Church of God Foundation?

The Church of God Foundation (COGF) is a charitable foundation created in 2001 to benefit the constituency of the Church of God, Cleveland, TN. Since that time, COGF has faithfully served as a financial services ministry resourcing the local church and promoting Kingdom expansion.

What kind of services does the Church of God Foundation offer?

COGF partners with the church by offering an assortment of financial services. We provide limited investment opportunities to the constituency of the Church of God, we extend loan financing to local congregations and church ministries, we assist generous donors in making legacy gifts, we supply charitable trust management, and we make financial resources, training/consultation available to local church and ministry leaders.

How can I partner with the ministry of the Church of God Foundation?

COGF provides several ways for individuals and ministries to be a part of our mission. In some cases, individuals and churches can place funds as an investment with the Foundation. These funds are then used to extend financing to churches seeking to expand in their communities or to fund other ministry endeavors. Individuals may also partner with COGF by donating funds and/or assets (i.e. real estate, stocks, etc.) to the Foundation for use in financing Kingdom ministry.

Who can invest with the Church of God Foundation?

Individuals who are Church of God members or are otherwise strongly affiliated with the church may apply as an investor with COGF. Church of God congregations and/or ministry agencies may also apply as a COGF investor. COGF accepts a limited number of investments, based on the need for funds and upon state regulations. COGF only accepts investments in states where we are authorized to do so. To obtain current rates and/or an investment application, please contact us.

Who does the Church of God Foundation lend money to?

COGF only extends financing to Church of God congregations and/or ministry agencies. To obtain current loan rates and/or a financing application, please contact us.

Who makes up the executive leadership team of the Church of God Foundation?

Bishop Clayton Watson serves as the President and Chief Executive of the Foundation. The Foundation operates with the oversight of its Board of Directors, who are appointed by the Executive Committee of the Church of God.
